2009 Workshops

June 2009 - Mid-June The Working Cattle Ranch

View Camera and CameraArts publisher Steve Simmons has spent much of his life around the western lifestyle. This workshop will be located at a working cattle and guest ranch in south central Colorado and times to coincide with roundup and branding time. Photographic opportunities will include the actual roundup and branding, moving cattle, the ranch hands, herds of horses, and western fashion.

July - July 25-26. The Black and White Darkroom

Former Ansel Adams assistant Alan Ross will teach a two day black and white printing class at the Santa Fe Community College as part of the Santa Fe PhotoArts Festival. This class will cover basic to advanced techniques and will include Alan doing a demonstration of how he makes and uses masks in the darkroom. Class limit 12 people. This workshop is part of Photo Arts Santa Fe and will be held in Santa Fe, NM

July - July 25-26 Photoshop and Lightroom

RIT Professor John Latimer teaches and writes about both Lightroom and Photoshop and will teach this as a real hands-on class for people wanting to learn both programs. Class limit 10 people. This workshop is part of Photo Arts Santa Fe and will be held in Santa Fe, NM.

July - July 27-28 Chaco Canyon

Join Steve Simmons for an overnight trip to Chaco Canyon. This will give us late afternoon and early morning light to photograph this spectacular location. Camping will be required. Large format cameras preferred. This workshop is part of Photo Arts Santa Fe.

October - The Eastern Sierra.

Join Steve Simmons and Gordon Hutchings for a week exploring the Eastern Sierra/Owens Valley Area from Conway Summit/Bodie down to the Alabama Hills. This will take place the second week of October. The group will meet in Lee Vining the first night for dinner. Additional details being arranged.
